Roy Lamb is circulating a petition asking Congress to pass a bill for the relief of Fred W. Lamb, who had four horses drowned while they were being ferried across the Salt River at Roosevelt by one of the government boats. The responsibility of the government comes in by reason of the fact that the crossing of the river had been destroyed by the reclamation work and the ferry had been put on as a substitute for the ford. It was while crossing in this ferry that the animals were drowned, the boat having capsized.
