The recent flood in the Verde river seriously damaged irrigating ditches again. Not only this but property belonging to those owning the ditches has been washed away leaving them in poor circumstances to rebuild the ditches. As the reservation has been turned over to the interior department for settlement settlers there are anxious that some disposition may be made of the land at the earliest possible opportunity so that parties who may secure land in the reservation may join with those below in taking out a ditch. In fact this seems to be the only solution to the agricultural situation there at present. By dividing up the expense in the matter it will be possible to rebuild the ditch, whereas if left to themselves the settlers below the reservation will be unable to rebuild alone.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

General Sherman's estate is valued at only $2,500.

Clifton estimates her damages by the recent flood at $100,000.

Governor Irwin has withdrawn the nomination of Colonel Wm. Herring as attorney general.

A bill has been introduced in the legislature to move the territorial prison to within two miles of Benson.

The council reconsidered its vote whereby it passed the female suffrage bill and then defeated it.

Stevens and Baudet the two Minneapolis census conspirators, have been sentenced to fines of $2,000 and $1,000 respectively.

Dr. Booth and his junior partner Booth of The Needles, have changed the name of their "Booth's Bazo" paper to "The Needles Eye."

One of the biggest wrestling matches Arizona has ever seen is predicted when the respective boards of Yavapai and the new county of Coconino tackle the financial settlement required to be made between the two counties.

A coroner's jury has found that the officers of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company were responsible for the Hartford tunnel disaster in accordance with their decision Chauncey M. Depew has been arrested and placed under $25,000 bonds to answer the charge.

Now that Prescott is provided with an ample hotel accommodations, we would suggest to our friends of the Prescott & Arizona Railroad company, that they try to secure some of the overland excursions to come to Prescott. It would afford business for the company, pleasure for the tourists and would be a good way to advertise our climate and resources.

Albuquerque comes to the front with a curiosity in the shape of an ascender. Instead of skipping out to Canada with a lot of money belonging to other people he took a contract to perform a certain piece of work for $50,000. He completed about $30,000 worth of the job, drew $20,000 and then skipped out leaving his employer in debt to him for the balance. These westerners are always getting 'up some new scheme.

Coconino is not supremely happy even now that the habilitations of a new county has been legislated to her. Flagstaff has been designated as the county seat until the special election is held in May, and she thinks that it belongs to her by right permanently. Her smaller sister Williams, however, is ambitious for the same honor and the contest between the two promises to be quite interesting, with the odds of course in favor of the former town.

While we would not like to be considered as attempting to dictate to Governor Irwin, we would respectfully recommend for his favorable consideration the name of W. O. O'Neill for reappointment as adjutant general of the territory. There is no man who would take as lively an interest in our territorial militia as our present adjutant general, to whose energy the existence of an organized militia in the territory at present is due.

News of a horrible massacre comes from Madagascar. Ramiasatra, governor of the province of Belanod, resenting a petition from the populace to the government to defend them from cruelties, massacred 278 persons, including men, women and children belonging to the leading families. The slaughter continued for several days. The agonies of the victims were in many cases protracted. Sometimes their limbs were gradually dismembered, their heads were sawed off, and their bodies thrown to dogs. Many of the women were outraged. The survivors were forced to erect a trophy composed of the heads of the victims. Popular fury has caused the government to announce that the offender will be punished.

The Journal-Miner having had a narrow escape on account of the flood from being compelled to issue an edition or two on brown paper was just about to sympathize with its neighbor, the Republican at Phenix on its brownish appearance, when the following lines were observed: "Phenix needs neither sympathy nor aid. She was not injured to any appreciable effect by that late damp weather." This was a sort of stunner after having read nearly a page and a half in a single issue of the paper formerly in which the crashing of adobe buildings, the housing of the destitute in public buildings and other incidents of accidents and losses were graphically portrayed. It no longer seems that the sensational account published in that paper was only "rot" and that instead of having experienced a flood they only had a little damp weather.

Mention was made, in a jocular way recently of the effect the repeal of the preemption law would have on the volume of business done at the Prescott office. But to treat the matter seriously, it is quite a blow to northern Arizona as it leaves only two modes open now for acquiring title to government land, viz: Under the homestead law and the desert land law. There is practically only a small portion of the land in the Prescott land district that can be taken up under the desert land act, so that virtually the only way left is under the homestead law. Many of our citizens having exercised their homestead rights, elsewhere are barred from taking up more land under this law. Again, under the liberal ruling of the department, of late years, grazing lands have been classified as agricultural lands, and parties settling in good faith and otherwise complying with the land laws, except as to cultivation, and making the proper showing, that the land was more valuable for grazing than for agriculture, their proofs have been accepted and patent has been issued to them. While such land could be settled upon, improved and occupied to the full requirement of the preemption laws, there is a very large proportion of such land, that a settler could not live upon continuously for five years as required by the homestead laws. So that in this view of the case, which is absolutely as the conditions exist in this land district, the outlook is rather poor for the settlements of the public lands unless in repealing the preemption law congress has made some other provision for disposing of the public land. Another great drawback to the settlement here is the fact that there is such a large proportion of the public domain unurveyed. Without an examination of the records it is safe to say that over one-half embraced in Yavapai and Apache counties is unurveyed. A great deal of it is valueless and unsurveyed, but we seriously doubt if one-half of the agricultural land of the county is surveyed. In Mohave county the situation is still worse as there is but a single township—a little over 22,000 acres—subdivided in the entire county, notwithstanding the fact that there are numerous fertile valleys which would be settled if there was a possibility of acquiring title.

The democratic majority in the legislature has passed an apportionment bill for this territory. It is as clean cut a piece of gerrymandering as has ever been practiced by the party outside of Ohio, and should bring the blush of shame to every man who voted for it and every honest man in the democratic party besides. One man alone of all the democratic members had the courage to vote against this political outrage and that was J. W. Dougherty, of Yavapai county. The territory is divided into four districts, each to elect three members of the council, as follows: 1, Maricopa, Mohave and Yuma; 2, Yavapai, Coconino and Apache; 3, Graham Pinal and Gila; 4, Pima and Cochise. With the exception of the last division each county shall have a single councillor. The assembly is as follows: Maricopa, 4; Mohave, 1; Yuma, 1; Yavapai, 3; Coconino, 1; Apache, 2; Graham, 2; Pinal, 1; Gila, 2; Pima, 4; Cochise, 3. From the above it will be seen that the counties of Yuma and Mohave, both of which are pretty closely divided politically, shall be controlled politically by Maricopa county, and so on through the entire gerrymandered list of districts, wherever a county is found that there might be any possible show of republicans electing a member, a county with a big democratic majority is tacked on to it. The democratic majority seemed to have only a single aim in view in passing this apportionment bill and that was partisan supremacy. They seemed to have overlooked entirely the question of justice in the matter. There is no justice or reason in such a bill that permits the citizens of one county to say to those of an adjoining county who shall or who shall not represent them in territorial legislatures.

Senator Vest, in an interview in the St. Louis Republic, recently, gave vent to his feelings toward Grover Cleveland in relation to the latter's views on the silver question as expressed in his letter to Mr. Anderson. Among other things the senator from Missouri said: "I hoped that he would finally conclude to content himself with an expression of his personal views without assailing aggressively the motives of democrats who differed with him and without defying the overwhelming sentiment of his party in the west and south. Mr. Cleveland is doubtless honest in his views, and so are we. He has the unquestionable right to take his position with the gold interests of New York, but he has no right to expect that those of us who differ with him will approve his unnecessary and wanton attack upon what we believe to be right. I have no doubt but that the next president of the United States will be a democrat, and I had hoped that Mr. Cleveland would be our nominee, but if a member of the next national convention, I would insist upon a plank in our platform for the free coinage of silver, and that no man should be nominated who did not accept that declaration in good faith as the policy of our party. Mr. Cleveland made a good president, and I have been his friend, but no man is greater than the democratic party. Jefferson, Madison and Jackson were greater men than Mr. Cleveland, but the party survived them, and will survive him. When a man represents the opinions on public questions of the democratic party it never deserts him, but when he does not represent our opinions he ceases to be a leader. We have no idols, and, therefore, never take them. We simply set aside the man who does not correctly represent our views on questions of vital importance, and select another."

The JOURNAL-MINER aims at all times to do no injustice to any one in its columns, but tries to deal fairly, even with its political opponents. In the heat and excitement of political campaigns, when numbers of all kinds are set afloat about candidates, even with the greatest precaution, it is possible sometimes to give expression to charges that may be an injustice to the individual, against whom they are made. When such a thing occurs the honorable way to do is to correct the injustice as far as possible. During the last campaign this paper in its opposition to Mr. Munds, as candidate for member of the board of supervisors, relying on representations made by other parties, made certain assertions in regard to Mr. Munds being an enemy to Prescott, which he assures the editor of this paper are wholly false, as he says he never entertained such feelings, and never gave expression to such sentiments as were attributed to him. Mutual friends of Mr. Munds, who are also friends of the JOURNAL-MINER, assure us that aspirations against the intelligence of the former, did him an injustice also, as they state that he is possessed of business qualifications above the average, and is moreover one of the best citizens of the county, whose honesty and integrity have never been called in question. Believing their statements, which are confirmed by the dignified and gentlemanly manners of the gentleman himself in an interview, we cheerfully make this correction.

The Mohave County Miner wants to be transformed to California. Here is its scheme: "We think it is about time for Congressman Vandever to drop his scheme for the annexation of Southern California and formulate some plan whereby California may be divided and a new state formed of the southern portion embracing within its limits the counties San Louis Obispo, Kern, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino and San Diego, and Mohave and Yuma counties, Arizona. This would give the southern portion as large an area and equally as rich territory as that embraced in the older portion of the state. The other nine counties of Arizona should be united with the western counties of New Mexico with the necessary population to entitle them to statehood. This arrangement would be of great benefit to both Yuma and Mohave, as at present the very name Arizona seems to be obnoxious to the refined sensibilities of capitalists. Eastern mining investors would more easily part with their money for our mines did they know they were situated in Mohave county, California, as the name California, to them, has for years been associated in their minds with the fabulous production of gold and silver. Our mineral resources are illimitable and our annexation to California would give us the additional prestige of belonging to a state known to the world over for its production of the precious metals."

A few of our territorial exchanges are still clamoring for a law providing for semi-annual payment of taxes. Just as if such a law was not in force now. The tax levies are made in August of each year and just as soon as the rate is fixed taxes are due and payable. Parties who do not want to wait until the afternoon of the last day on which taxes are payable to go down into their wallet and fish out therefrom their annual tribute to the government can as soon as the rate has been fixed by the board of supervisors and the duplicate roll completed make a partial or full payment of their taxes. A payment can be made on account and the balance paid before taxes become delinquent. A law providing for semi-annual payment of taxes would be an entirely useless statute. The universal custom is for taxpayers to wait until the very latest moment to pay their taxes and if quarterly payments were allowed the same custom would be observed, as people as a rule do not feel like giving up their titles to the county and territorial governments until compulsion stares in the face.

Mr. Bullock interviewed T. S. Bullock, who is at present in Phenix, was interviewed recently by the Phenix Republican in regard to his plans for building his railroad with the following result: "What have you to say in regard to the charge that if you extend your railroad south you will sidetrack Prescott?" queried a Republican representative of Mr. Thomas S. Bullock yesterday. "What have I to say of it?" answered Mr. Bullock sharply, "I simply say that all such statements are unqualifiedly false. I am a heavy property owner in Prescott. In fact, I believe there is but one man—Hon. Coles Bashford—who owns more city lots there than I do. It is reasonable to suppose that I am not anxious to have the town grow and progress. Within the past three months I have built three good residences there one of them a fine house costing over $4,000. "Prescott is now the headquarters of my road, and if the exemption bill passes and I extend it, Prescott will still remain the headquarters, and all this talk of sidetracking the place is simply foolish. It is true that my line will not be built on directly south from the city for the reason that there is an insurmountable mountain barrier to the south that must be built around. No railroad runs directly into and through the city of Buffalo. It is the same at Philadelphia. Trains from New York to Washington for instance swing around into the Broad street station and then go out the same way until they are free to go around the city. So in Prescott, in extending my road south, I will swing off to the north-east several miles in order to get around the mountains, but Prescott will be just as much on the main line as ever and it will be the headquarters of the road."

A Southern Eulogy on Sherman. Full of honors and full of year, General William Tecumseh Sherman has reached the river of death to join Grant and Sheridan and other leaders and legions of his old comrades in arms. We do not believe that the civil war developed on the union side a more picturesque figure than this great soldier. Grant was superior to him in many ways, but for bold, original and fierce warfare, Sherman was without an equal. His raid through Mississippi, and his famous march to the sea, will forever rank with the most brilliant and effective military operations, and there can be no doubt that this terrible crusade with the sword and the torch through the very heart of the south precipitated the collapse of the confederacy. This is neither the time nor the place to review in detail the dead soldier's career, nor to criticize his motives. He had his faults, very serious ones, but he also had many shining virtues. He was always in his heart, really liked southerners, and had many personal friends among them. The rebuilding and subsequent prosperity of Atlanta gratified him very much, and he was a firm believer in the future greatness of this region. When all is said that can be said the fact looms up that this man was one of the great soldiers of the age. Perhaps he was not essentially a soldier that we run the risk of misjudging him. He knew he cared nothing about politics and diplomacy. His way of setting difficulty was to cut the Gordian knot with his sword. He was a hard fighter and never grew sentimental in the presence of bloodshed and death. But when business of war was over—when he had accomplished his mission—he showed a softer side, and men and women, even among his former foes found him a very lovable man. But it is too early to pass judgment that must be left to the impartial history. In the close of General Sherman's life in the republic has lost one of her most devoted and distinguished sons, and the nation will mourn his loss.—Atlanta Constitution.

Scattered to the Winds. New York, March 11.—A committee of four from the States Island Schutzen Corps, appointed to carry out the request of Henry Meyer, proprietor of the Puck hotel at Port Richmond, that his ashes be scattered to the winds from the top of the statue of liberty on Bedloe's Island, fulfilled their mission today. After a brief address by the master of ceremonies, each man holding a paper bag containing the ashes of Meyer, in his right hand, pronounced these words together: "Here goes the last of Puck Meyer's happy days," and then scattered the ashes to the four winds.

"A GROWL." Mr. Horton: Although my taxes are small, yet they are as burdensome to me as if I paid much more. And as a taxpayer, I feel that I have a right to criticize those extravaganzas that are levied on the creation of high taxes. I have in my mind the county hospital. No sooner does the insupportable citizen become broken down and debilitated, than he rushes off to the hospital. Even personal dyspepsia and constipation are getting to be excuses for admission. Hence, allow me space to enter my feeble protest against the creation of this pernicious practice. It costs the county many hard dollars for the treatment of every one of those unfortunate, and it is high time that they should know that they can save the county that expense, and themselves those distressing ailments, by the judicious use of a few bottles of Jorg's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.—a remedy that will cure any ailment, and is a sure cure for those too common diseases. If they won't take it they ought to be compelled to by some law that would make the case. Under the circumstances a full hospital is unnecessary.— hence this growl. CITIZEN.
